4th GRUR Int./JIPLP Joint Seminar

The different notions of “copyright-protected work” in Europe

14.00 – 19.00

Max Planck Institute for Innovation and Competition
Munich, Germany

4th GRUR Int. / JIPLP Celebratory Seminar

The different notions of “copyright-protected work” in Europe

Since the beginning of 2013, the German Association for the Protection of Intellectual Property (GRUR) and Oxford University Press (OUP) have formed a publishing partnership to foster the exchange of content between GRUR’s journal Gewerblicher Rechtsschutz und Urheberrecht, Internationaler Teil (GRUR Int.) and the Journal of Intellectual Property Law & Practice (JIPLP), a publication of OUP. Under the agreement, both journals are including a section in each issue which is filled by interesting content from the partner journal. In addition to that, the partners are offering a series of bi-annual Joint Seminars in London and Munich which are dealing with topical European IP issues.

The 4th GRUR Int. / JIPLP Joint Seminar being organised by GRUR in cooperation with JIPLP and the Max Planck Institute for Innovation and Competition (MPI) will look into the different notions of “copyright-protected work” in Europe. Experts from Germany, the U.K. and the Netherlands will

- provide an update on the notion of work under EU copyright law including recent ECJ rulings;
- give an overview of the legislation, case law and contractual practices in their respective countries;
- analyse the influence of new forms of “co-creation” in the digital environment – such as crowdsourcing – on the concept(s) of “copyright-protected work”;
- discuss to what extent notions of authorship and concepts of personal traits in the work still have an influence;
- debate the question to what extent harmonization at EU level is needed.

We invite you to join the discussion and look forward to seeing you in Munich!
